 elsewhere in the system (in the current layer) are also related to the concept of symbolic interaction. This interaction can be understood as a process involving the exchange of information between entities within the system, where each entity contributes its own perspective and interpretation of the symbols being exchanged.